

Present Senate Rule provides for the preparation, format, introduction, printing, and copying of legislative instruments.

Present Senate Rule provides that if the constitution or laws require that notice be given of intention to introduce a bill, evidence that notice has been given must be attached to one of the copies presented at the time of introduction.

Present Senate Rule provides that every bill is to be printed upon introduction and available for distribution to the members and to the public upon request.

Present Senate Rule provides for the furnishing of copies of bills and digests to members.

Present Senate Rule provides that no bill can be considered on third reading and final passage until the requirements of present Senate Rule have been met.

Present Senate Rule further provides with regard to resolutions, reports, memorials, and petitions.

Present Senate Rule provides that bills are to be introduced in a format that includes both the existing law and the proposed new law, and provides specific coding requirements for new and deleted provisions.

Proposed Senate Rule retains present Senate Rule, and further provides that a request for legislation that is to be introduced during a regular session on the last day for introduction of matters having the effect of law must be received by Senate Legislative Services staff not later than 6:00 p.m. on the day prior to the last day for introduction of such legislation.
